

Introduction

The singing of familiar songs has long been noted to be a relatively spared ability for many individuals with aphasia (Racette, Bard, & Peretz, 2006). However, Pound et al (2000) point out that the opportunity to be an active member